VOLUME XXI—NO 88

CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1920

TWO CENTS

BLANKET SIZE BALLOT WILL BE USED AT GENERAL ELECTION

Largest Sheet Ever Presented To Voter For His Consideration

MIXED TICKET WILL BE HARD

The ballot to be used at the general election to be held on the 2nd of November will more nearly approach the blanket size than any used for a number of years, if indeed there ever was one of such dimensions. The county commissioners have received a sample ballot from the office of George D. Thorn, chief of the bureau of elections of the secretary of the commonwealth's office at Harrisburg. The ballot is 25 by 30 inches in size.

There will be eight party squares at the left of the ballot, giving persons affiliated with the Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Prohibition, Industrialist, Labor and Single Tax parties a place. There is also a blank space for the insertion of any name the voter may desire. There are likewise eight columns for the reception of thirty-eight names each for the position of presidential elector. At the head of these columns the names of the party candidates for president and vice president are given.

To vote a straight ballot will require but one mark—a mark in the square at the left side of the ballot, although a complete ballot will require five marks, for there is a corner of the ballot devoted to the non-partisan feature of the election, there being a judge of both the supreme and superior court to elect. Neither of the candidates has any opposition, so there will likely be little attention paid to that. Then there are two amendments to the state constitution proposed, and each voter may, if he is interested, vote for or against either or both of these.

A split ballot will require more marking, although there are short ways to split and still not destroy any portion of the ballot. However, if a complete split is tackled, it will require the placing of 52 marks, for there are 38 electors, two state judges, one United States senator, four members of congress at large, one state treasurer, one auditor general, a district congressman, three assemblymen and two constitutional amendments.

While there are general instructions given at the top of the ballot for the voter, it is not made very plain how one can vote for all the presidential electors for his or her favorite candidate and split the remainder of the ticket. This, however, can be accomplished with safety under the arrangement whereby one can mark a straight party ballot, then go down the line and mark for others outside the party, those marked for any particular office only counting for that office. One feature of the ballot is that for the first time since the split in the Republican party eight years ago, none of the names—pre-empted

GIVES DINNER TO ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE

Mrs. T. Yohn entertained at her home last evening with a dinner party, to announce the marriage of her grand-daughter, Miss Teresa Grege, to William High, Jr. The wedding was solemnized July 3, 1920, the young couple having kept it a secret. Covers were laid for twelve, the decorations being pink and white and the favors kewpie brides. Guests present were members of the immediate families.

CHARLEROI BOYS ARE WINNERS IN BOUTS

The Majestic Club of McKeesport which has inaugurated the season for boxing bouts in the Tube City, has arranged for the appearance of Young Pinchot of Charleroi, who will meet Bernie Hahn, of Wheeling, in the Palisades Rink on Friday evening, September 24. Pinchot is a top liner, and Hahn, who has never before appeared in this section, is said to be very clever.

At the same place on Wednesday night Brick Ryan of Charleroi, nussed up Eddie Miller of Pittsburgh for two rounds, knocking him down twice and outclassing him in every way. In the second bout Steve (Kid) Carter, also of Charleroi, collided with Jack Barnhart in a rough mill, in which Carter was accorded the newspaper decision. Carter landed the hardest and cleanest blows and left his impression on his opponent.

CLASS DECIDES TO HOLD BUNDLE DAY

The Self-Denial class of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church held a regular meeting last evening at the home of Mont Robinson, Fallowfield avenue. There was a large attendance of members, and it was decided to have a Bundle Day for the benefit of the women and children of the Near East. They ask the co-operation of all churches and people of the town, bundles to be delivered on Wednesday, September 22, at the borough building.

This is due to the fact that they have failed to produce the required number of votes at the last general election to keep their names there.

Bible Class Hold Autumn Meeting At Oakland Park

The Men's and Women's Bible classes of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church held their autumn "get-together" meeting Thursday evening at Oakland Park. The meeting was voted a success in every particular. The central committee on arrangements was composed of James Dawson, chairman, and Messrs. Kimmins, Metz and Zimmerman from the Men's class. The women's committee consisted of Mrs. Staniman, chairman, with Mrs. Steck, Mrs. Dawson, Mrs. Moran, and Mrs. Lowstutter. The lunch consisted of all the delicacies of the season, and it was a happy party that dined together. A short program followed, arranged by the following committee: Arch Osborne, chairman; E. C. Robertson, John Fleming, Mr. Anderson, and Joseph Steck. The following events and winners were tabulated: Long baseball throw, won by Loren Tope; standing broad jump, won by Rev. Burson; 50-yard dash, won by Joseph Steck; sack race, won by Loren Tope; clothespin race, won by men, captained by Arch Osborne; long baseball throw for women, won by Mrs. Clifford Robertson; peanut race, won by Mrs. Emma Dawson. Shoe shuffle race, won by Arch Osborne; potato race, won by Mrs. England; Completing the aerial picture, won by Mrs. Ziegler; 25-yard dash for juniors, won by Walter Metz; 20-yard dash for primary, won by Virginia Manon. These two large Bible classes meet in the auditorium of the church, and have always maintained the most cordial relations, and the meeting Thursday evening was in keeping with the aggressive spirit which inaugurates the autumn campaign.

HOSPITAL DENIES STATEMENT OF JURY

Officials of the Monongahela Memorial hospital are very indignant at the verdict rendered by a coroner's jury at Bentleyville, which investigated the incidents preceding the death of Daniel Packe, aged nine years, of Cokeburg, who was run over by an auto truck, and who subsequently died at the hospital. The coroner's jury charged the hospital authorities with permitting the boy to remain several hours in the hospital without medical attention. In reply the hospital authorities say that the boy was hauled nine miles in an auto truck to the hospital; when he arrived there a request was made for a certain physician, a member of the staff who at the time was not at the hospital; that one of the physicians present, seeing the boy was in bad shape, gave him immediate attention and endeavored to stop the flow of blood. The officials resent the imputation that there was any neglect on the part of the hospital staff and it is said will demand a retraction of the imputation contained in the verdict.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR THE HICKORY-BURGETTSTOWN ROAD

LIG LEAGUE PLAYER RESIDES IN BROWNSVILLE

Brownsville friends of Homer Summa were pleased to note that he broke into the big league score card on Monday last, when he batted for pitcher Adams in the eighth inning at Boston. Summa is the property of the Birmingham, Ala., club but played in the Virginia club during the season. He resided in Brownsville last winter and was employed at the Allison works of the W. J. Rainey Coke company.

Department Breaks Away From Policy On One-Bid Offer For Contract

LOCAL PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

The state highway department at Harrisburg on Thursday awarded to the Samuel Gamble company of Carnegie, the contract to build 34,837 feet of one-course reinforced concrete roadway on route 115, from Hickory to Burgettstown, this county, at the bid price of $475,646.50.

This award was made by the state highway department in accordance with an agreement made with the county commissioners, which recommended the contract be let, although there was only one bidder for the work. This highway is considered one of the most important in the northwestern section of the county, and is one of the four roads agreed upon by the state highway department and the Washington county commissioners for immediate improvement.

The other three roads are the Speers-Coal Centre, the Monongahela Pike, and the road leading from North Charleroi to the city line of Monongahela, through the Horseshoe district in Carroll township. The awarding of the contract for the improvement of the Burgettstown road is the first to be agreed upon, although efforts have been made to place the Monongahela pike under contract, but up to this time tenders in this proposed work have been rejected because only one bidder has made an offer, and because of what the department considered excessive prices.

However, people living in the section served by these roads hope for better results—the coming spring, when it is anticipated the department may be able to secure more favorable bids because of a return to more normal conditions.

People in this section of the valley are still waiting for some definite steps to be taken in the way of getting the Speers-Coal Centre road under contract. The Pittsburgh Railroad company appears to be the stumbling block at the present time and as soon as officials of that company can decide on their line of procedure the state highway department and the county commissioners say they are ready to make a forward move.

In any event the awarding of the contract on the Burgettstown road looks quite favorable for a beginning of work on highways in the county which will ultimately mean the completion of the entire plan already agreed upon.

DISTILLERY TO BE SOLD FOR TAXES

In default of federal liquor taxes to the amount of $11,400, due the Internal Revenue Department, the buildings and equipment of the Fairchance Distilling company, six from Uniontown, are to be sold at public auction October 6th, next, following government seizure. The only thing left to pay the taxes on forty barrels of whiskey stolen out of the distillery's bonded warehouse, are a few ramshackle buildings, one tenement house and the copper "worm" by which thousands of gallons of spirits were made in years past. When prohibition became effective July 1 last year, reports of the federal department disclosed a total of something over 40 barrels of hard whiskey stored behind the government hasp that automatically sealed the doors of the warehouse to the public. During this prohibition period it was whiskey was stolen and the distilling company refused to pay the tax, hence the action of the government in seizing the property and offering it for sale.

BEAVERS DO MUCH MISCHIEF

Property Owners in the Adirondacks Are Uneasy Over the Situation They Have Created.

Because the limited intelligence of the beaver goes no further than its own immediate purposes, owners of property in the Adirondacks are wishing that the beaver was less industrious and seriously wondering what is to be done to stop the increasing number of these willing workers from decreasing the value and beauty of this famous region. The forest rangers of the conservation commission, says a writer in the Albany Journal, last summer estimated the undesirable results that had followed the building of nearly 600 beaver dams, and found that an area of about 5,681 acres had been flooded, and something like $51,000 worth of good merchantable standing timber was being destroyed. Considering that the number of beavers, now estimated at about 18,000 is believed to be increasing about 3,000 a year, the damage bids fair to become a serious problem. Not only do they destroy valuable timber, but they are steadily changing the character of the Adirondack scenery along the water courses and altering the shore line of the lakes; yet the region without any beavers at all would not be the Adirondacks as nature made it and as those who now go there to enjoy its beauty like to find it. Time was when the beavers seemed likely to vanish, and the state took them under its protection; now the danger seems to be that they are so well protected that they will eventually "come back" in numbers out of proportion to the normal population of beavers when the Adirondacks were subject to the conditions of life in a wild country.

NUMBERS IN EAST AND WEST

Difference of Opinion as to Whether Odd or Even Figures Are Lucky or Unlucky.

We are pleased to term thirteen an unlucky number, observes London Answers, but in Japan the unlucky number is four, and in Burma even numbers are all considered less lucky than odd ones. Our lucky numbers, or what are generally considered so by superstitious folk, are three and seven. If you ask the reason you are told that God is Three in One, and that God made holy the seventh day. As for seven, this number is supposed to be lucky either by itself or in its multiples. As an old writer says, a boy sheds his teeth at 7 years old; at 14 he becomes a youth; at 21 a man; while he reaches his grand climacteric at nine times 7—that is 63. The figure three is extraordinarily prominent in the Bible. Noah had three sons, and Job three friends. There were three patriarchs. Daniel's three companions were thrown into the fiery furnace, and he himself was three days in the lions' den.

Had Lots of Pluck.

George Thibault, proprietor of the summer hotel at Outlet, a village a few miles from Picton, Ont., was driving his car towards home recently when he chanced to meet a herd of cattle. The owner of the auto slowed down to allow the animals to pass without undue excitement. All went well till he met the leader of this large bovine family, a splendid young roan bull. The latter resented the presence of the mechanical contrivance passing down through the herd on low gear. Lowering his massive head, he charged resulting in only a few bruises to himself, but a twisted axle, a badly bent fender and a smashed headlight to the unfortunate motor. As Mr. Thibault inspected the damage he remarked emphatically: "I certainly admired his pluck, but he showed poor judgment."

Ice Cut With a Gas-Driven Saw.

For the purpose of cutting ice extensively during the last winter, the new gas-driven saw of an automobile type power plant and a circular saw at the end of an adjustable arm, so that the saw can be raised and lowered to the desired degree. The saw is pushed along on steel runners, the operator behind furnishing the motive power. A double lever arrangement just over the handle bars serves to control the raising and lowering of the saw. The portable saw in question cuts the ice into 20-foot squares. These squares are guided through the water to a gang of four circular saws, which cut the squares into the regulation sized cakes.

The Airplane in Politics.

Mr. Holman, the former New South Wales premier, rejoices in the huge electorate known euphoniously as Coorambundra. On the eve of a very warmly contested election, Mr. Holman recognized that Coorambundra had 18 large centers, each of which required a personal canvass in order to insure the return of its present able representative. He announced, therefore, that he would use an airplane to cover the electorate. Not to be outdone, his labor opponent at once made plans to drop propaganda by airplane over Mr. Holman's route.

Heat-Insulating Material.

A new heat-insulating material composed of asbestos and a special chemical and cork has been discovered by a Norwegian engineer. The clay and cork mixture is burned and the result is the formation of a very light substance that is said to be eminently suitable for all heat-insulating purposes.

Ancient Hunger Strikers.

Hunger striking is not the modern development most people think. In the seventeenth century, Evelyn, the diarist, discovered cases and made notes of them. "I had the curiosity to visit some Quakers here in prison," he wrote of a visit he made to Ipswich in July, 1656, "a new sect which show no respect to any man, magistrate or other. . . . One of these was said to have fasted twenty days; but another, endeavoring to do the like, perished on the tenth, when he would have eaten, but could not."

Mother Endearments.

A baby needs love and cuddling fast as it needs its mother's milk, or baths, or clean clothes. The aged mother endearments are the truest wisdom. They coax the awakening baby soul as the sun coaxes out the wild flowers in the springtime. They give zest to baby life, and without that zest babies grow listless and stupid, and many of them fade and die.—Exchange.

COX—DIVERTING THE PUBLIC MIND

That the Cox outcry against campaign contributions is merely an effort to forestall exposure of the campaign fund methods practiced by his own machine in Ohio, is asserted by public men in his own State who cite the records in support of that view. Attention is called to the fact that there is proof from the records of the Criminal Courts of Franklin County, Ohio that a real conspiracy operated, right under the dome of the State Capitol where Cox was presiding, to collect funds to re-elect him Governor of the State.

"The Cox machine didn't merely request campaign funds," says this authority. "It violated the law by levying assessments for the advancement of Cox's political fortunes on all civil service employees in the State service. Half a dozen State officials and Democratic party leaders were indicted. William L. Finley, Chairman of the Cox State Executive Committee, pleaded guilty and was punished, and the conspiracy was frustrated.

"There were thousands of employees on the State payroll at the time the conspiracy was hatched, which was in January, 1914. The plot involved a levy of three per cent on the annual pay of each of these, payable monthly, or an average of about $10 per month per victim. Launched in January, 1914 the immediate purpose of the fund was to pay the expense of a Publicity Bureau which was to be established in Cox's interest.

"The defenseless victims were ordered to make their contributions. Men and women, girls, boys, colored and white, Democrats and Republicans, from the chief clerks down to janitors and scrubwomen—all were forced to pay. The collection system was extended to practically every department of the State Government—Secretary of State, Public Utilities, Treasury, Superintendent of Banks, Adjutant General's Department, Tax Commission, were all completely organized, and plans were under way for the extension of the system to the remaining departments when discovery was made and the Grand Jury halted further progress.

"The evidence which was produced before the Grand Jury was convincing beyond all doubt. The mute proof of cancelled checks was added to the oral testimony adduced, and as a result State Chairman Finley, Emory Lattanner, State Superintendent of Banks, Merle A. Collier, his Assistant and A. V. Abernathy, Secretary of Cox's State Tax Commission, were indicted.

"A fight of two months and a half was waged by a squadron of skilled organization attorneys in behalf of the indicted officials. But every effort to have the indictments quashed was defeated; and finally Finley decided to plead guilty on one of the six indictments returned against him. The others were thereupon quashed, as were those against the other defendants, the object of the prosecution having been attained. Finley was let off with a fine."

The sincerity of the Cox outcry may be easily judged.

RELIGION HE CURE

"Wages have advanced on foot in the last 150 years, but profits have ridden on the fast express," declares a Kansas City pastor.

"To quote John Stuart Hill," he continued, "it is questionable whether our great inventions have brought any comfort to the rank and file of mankind. There has been a physical decline in some of our people because they have lived in crowded tenements. The wages of the average man will not permit him to live in the better districts owing to high rent and car fare. Nor have we protected those who work with dangerous machinery. In a single year as many people have met their death on account of such machinery in this country as live in some of our large sized cities.

"The remedy for the antagonism between capital and labor does not

He in destroying corporations, nor Communism, nor in Bolshevism. Russia in all its 160,000,000 inhabitants has less than 2,990,000 Bolshevists and these rule by controlling the army.

"The remedy lies in religious awakening. For for John Wesley the French revolution would have been repeated in England. He saved that country through his religious revival. Our own impending industrial catastrophe can only be prevented in a similar manner."

Five hundred barbers in Newark, N. J., are reported to have struck, not for more money—their wages and tips now bringing them about $50 a week—but because they want their remuneration to be entirely in the form of wages and not partly in the form of reluctant and begrudging gifts from patrons. If this movement is sincere, Newark barbers have more self-respect than is usually displayed by the tonsorial fraternity elsewhere, for tipping in barbershops is more universal than even in restaurants. Presumably this is because patrons feel the need of the good will of the razor-wielding barber more than that of the soup-splashing waiter himself.

The Brooklyn Eagle picturesquely and more or less accurately describes Greenwich Village, New York's imitation of the Latin Quarter of Paris, as a "symphony of indolent intellectualism," and the place "where the principle of self-determination is hugged to the burning bosom of the enlightened, along with Russian cigarettes, grape juice and rejected manuscripts."

Oregon, the newly elected President of Mexico, is described as glib of the tongue, vain as a peacock, shrewd, better informed about the outside world than Carranza, and more honest than the average Mexican general and statesman. This is not an altogether reassuring portrait, but in matters Mexican an experienced world has learned not to expect too much.

Senator Harding is revealing himself as a big man leading a big party toward a big job. In an able and dignified manner he discusses issues of the day, letting his Democratic opponent have a monopoly of the methods of the ward politician.

Until a few centuries ago large cities had police protection only through employing special watchmen.

Giving Her Away.
The bridegroom of the bride by some point, usually her father, is a relic of the time when women were "bought" a chattel without rights, and unable to hold property. In such circumstances, she could not, of course, choose her own husband, and was given away to the man who wanted her in exchange for a substantial present.

Why Do We Dream?
We often dream about what has occupied our thoughts during the day. We think deeply just before falling asleep, our thoughts are bound to follow our dream. But many people dream of things that they have certainly not been thinking about, so thoughts are not always the cause.

Lost No Time.
Mary, aged 4, was pulling her baby brother in a wagon, when the baby tipped over and he lay on the ground. When she took him to her mother and told her about it her mother asked: "What did you do when the baby cried?" Mary replied: "I got scared to death just as quick as I could."

Sound Travels Fast.
The velocity of sound varies according to the medium through which it travels. In dry air at a temperature of 32 degrees Fahrenheit, it is about 1,087 feet a second; in glass, 13,000 feet a second; in steel, 16,400; in water, 4,708 (at 8 degrees centigrade).

Not a Frenzied Financier.

Official Tattooing.
In some countries tattooing is adopted for several purposes. For example, in Samoa, when a woman marries, several tattoo marks are placed on her, and in Fiji and Samoa the birth of each child is registered in this way on the mother's hand.

HALO DUE TO MISCONCEPTION

Explanation of Luminous Circle About the Heads of Saints is Some-what Humorous.

For centuries it has been an almost universal practice among artists to paint halos about the heads of the saints in their pictures. Some characters have been so depicted, even though not officially canonized or proclaimed to be saints, when the artist wished to indicate special spiritual qualities or holiness, as for instance, in the case of Joan of Arc.

During the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries there was a great activity in the building of churches and cathedrals, and it was a common practice to erect statues of the saints, which were placed just under the eaves. As the statues became discolored by the rain which fell upon the roofs and then poured over them, the artists, as a means of protection, placed over the heads of the figures wooden discs of a size sufficient to protect them. Given the great artist, began to paint holy pictures when only a country boy, and in his ignorance assumed that the discs were essential to the images of the saints. He painted halos, and the custom of painting halos over the heads of the figures became the custom of the artists. Later on the halos were idealized into a more artistic form, but the production of halos has come down unchanged through the centuries of painters as the halos of sanctity.—New York Post.

DREW LAUGHTER FROM GRANT

Witty Remarks of Mark Twain Broke Down Reserve Characteristic of the Famous Soldier.

Responding to the toast of "Hallowed be the memory of Gen. Grant in 1870, Mark Twain concluded with a sentence that set the gathering in an uproar. In his inimitable drawling voice he said:

"In his cradle, somewhere under the flag, the future illustrious commander-in-chief of the American armies is so little concerned with his approaching greatness and responsibilities as to be giving his whole attention to trying to find some way to get his own big toe into his mouth, an achievement which (assuming no disrespect) the illustrious guest of this evening has turned his attention to some thirty-six years ago. And if the child, but the father of the man, there was a mighty few who will doubt that he succeeded."

At that conclusion the audience broke into cheers and roars of laughter, in which even the reserved Grant joined.

Have Broad Matrimonial Views.

Phrosopey Maoris are normally polygamists, but there are many old Maoris who are still fond of their ancestral monogamy. Their religion is that of nature-worship combined with a veneration of ancestors. A peculiar and interesting detail of their religion is the belief that the soul dwells in a child's head before it is born.

The Maoris were monogamists until the late 1800s, their favorite food being roasted hogs. Eating the hogs of their enemies was supposed to give them strength, especially in times of war-time activities.

As for the Maoris' marriage laws, they seem to have none. But they believe very strongly that men should have absolute power over women. Even today they have very broad views on the subject of matrimony, and each man generally takes unto himself as many wives as he can afford to maintain.

Joke 5,000 Years Old.

Planned by the ancient Egyptians over 5,000 years ago, a joke just came to fruition, writes Prof. Flinders Petrie, the noted archaeologist. "While we were trying to find a way into a queen's pyramid," he says, "we discovered on a rock face a door which was so beautifully and exactly fitted that it was difficult to see the joints. We immediately set to work on this, thinking that we had found at last an entrance to the inner chamber. After a considerable amount of work we removed the door and found—solid rock! It was a carefully arranged blind to balk anyone who wanted to find the entrance into the royal tombs, and had been made about 3,000 B. C. by someone with a sense of humor."

Investigations made in several Boston hospitals by Dr. Ellsworth Huntington seem to indicate that for surgical operations, the best condition of the atmosphere is high humidity. So per cent or more, directly after operations, and moderate humidity, about 65 per cent, at a temperature of 64 degrees Fahrenheit, a few days later, to our Huntington points out that, if these results are correct, there is no room for the old-time conditions of temperature and humidity should be maintained artificially in hospitals, causing a considerable improvement in the less than 20 per cent in the results of operations.

Clear Field.

"Ah, here is a letter from the old man," says a young man. "What a letter! You father is dead!"

WIRELESS IN THE POCKET

Small, Cheap Apparatus That is Really a Marvel of Ingenuity, Costs Only $5.

It is now possible to pick up a wireless message from any of the big stations within reasonable distance in this country with the aid of an ordinary umbrella, a patent pocketbook and a telephone.

The umbrella will act as the aerial, the pocketbook contains a miniature receiving set, and, of course, the telephone must be a high-resistance instrument.

It has even been possible, inventors of the pocket receiving set say, to use an ordinary bedstead as an aerial.

You must not expect with this simple installation to get in wireless touch with Paris, Berlin or Moscow, but if you want the mild excitement of picking up messages from a home station within reasonable distance you must follow these directions:

Take your umbrella with you and the pocketbook, select a nice lofty position, and having earthed one corner of the pocketbook—say to a water pipe or something equally damp and handy, hold your umbrella out at arm's length. There should also be a telephone handy, and it would be more convenient to use the headgear worn by telephone operators.

Having raised yourself up as a human wireless station all you have to do is to listen. You will be as a rock in a wireless sea with invisible waves of understanding running down the stick of your umbrella.

It is claimed for this pocket receiving set that it is comparable in sensitivity with the most expensive and elaborate tuner on the market.

The cost of the pocketbook is about $5.—London News.

Tilefish Again Caught in Vast Numbers, Though They Were Believed to Have Been Wiped Out.

Tilefish are a fish with a short but remarkable history, writes a correspondent. Their discovery was dramatic. In May, 1873, Captain Kirby of the schooner Hinchings, out of Gloucester, Mass., was traveling for cod off the Nantucket banks. No cod was found, but a large fish, unknown to science, was present in great numbers. In a very short time 6,500 pounds of the new species were caught. The fish proved to be of high food value and good keeping qualities. There was a big popular demand for them, and large quantities were caught for three years. Then the supply failed as suddenly as it had appeared. In the spring of 1882 the boats failed to catch a single tilefish. A few days later incoming boats reported having passed through miles of dead or dying tilefish. They covered an area of 5,000 square miles, and were estimated to number 1,000,000,000.

From 1882 to 1915 no trace of tilefish was found in any waters of the world, adds our correspondent. Scientific men were convinced that the fish had been utterly and mysteriously exterminated. Then, early in 1915, a government boat, in almost the identical spot off the Nantucket banks as that in which tilefish were first taken, again caught some of the same species. Again these proved to be vast numbers of them, and new grounds were also discovered along the New Jersey coast. Since then the tilefish has been caught without interruption, but the riddle of its strange disappearance for 33 years has not yet been solved.—Manchester Guardian.

New Meaning of "Intrigue."

The latest verbal importation from France that I have had occasion to remark is no more than the conferring of a new meaning upon an old word. In English "to intrigue" has always meant to plot surreptitiously, whereas in French it was always used (by extension) to indicate the state of puzzled doubt in which we may find ourselves when we have reason to suspect a surreptitious plot, and this secondary French meaning is now passing over into English, so that we may read in the light stories that run through our magazines, "she intrigued me," meaning that she puzzled me, and not meaning that she involved me in an intrigue. This Gallic secondary meaning will probably force itself into our English Anglo-Saxon, and we shall have hereafter the privilege of employing "to intrigue" in either of two different intents. I doubt if this will be to the profit of the language; but protest is idle, since the fate of a word always depends upon its ultimate usefulness.—Randall Matthews in Harper's Magazine.

No finer dressed party of men and women ever assembled together in this city than those who took part in the ball given by the bachelors of Sheridan to their married friends. Many of the costumes deserve mention, but the Postman is not capable of describing them properly.

Enemies of the Olive Tree.

Besides the birds, there are numerous insects which attack the fruit, the wood and the leaves of the olive tree. The most dreaded of these is a small fly called Dacus oleae, which is about half the size of a common house fly. The female has a sting like a wasp, with which she punctures the fruit where she deposits her eggs. It is calculated that a single fly will thus destroy three hundred or four hundred olives.

CLUB HOUSE INSPECTION ON SUNDAY NEXT

The club house of the Monongahela Valley Country Club, located on the Ridgeway in Carroll township, a short distance out of Monongahela has been practically completed, and will be open for the inspection of members on Sunday next. It is hoped to have all the furniture and fixtures installed before that time, and the board of directors expect to have a completed interior to show club members. It is likely that some function to be given some time soon will give a somewhat more formal opening to the new home of the club.

Beautiful Girls

WITH LUXURIOUS, SOFT FLUFFY HAIR

Soon grow from the healthy child who has enjoyed proper parental care.

Care of the young daughter's hair, at this day and age, is very essential to her attractiveness, progress and success in the soon-to-come young womanhood of her life.

Do not destroy her chances in life by hair neglect. Naturally if there is an antiseptic tonic used on the scalp, dandruff germs, which lodge there and which are practically unavoidable, will get a start and destroy hair roots and the small glands which supply color to the hair. This condition means a thin growth of fading, falling hair. As a direct result of this many girls are at a decided disadvantage.

The easiest, cleanest and most satisfactory remedy for guarding against or removing these and other hair troubles is the hair nourishing antiseptic, CRUDOLEUM. It will overcome the dandruff, save the hair and void much future expense and trouble and assure for that daughter of ours the asset and blessing that she is justly entitled to, namely, beautiful, healthy hair.

CRUDOLEUM is endorsed by professionals everywhere and a large bottle is sold at F. J. John's drug store for only 35c. Get a bottle today at F. J. John's; he is authorized to guarantee its satisfaction. If your druggist does not happen to have CRUDOLEUM in stock, mail us 40c and we will send it to you postpaid. Wm. M. JAFFA GATE IN JERUSALEM

Passageway Through Which General Allenby Entered Is the Real Article, Writer Says.

Jerusalem has seven gates and a transportation problem handled at present, as of old, along purely Eastern lines. There are donkeys, horses, camels—even carriages and the ubiquitous flivver and all that traffic concentrates naturally at the gates. Just as, to increase its force, water used to be made to flow through a small opening in the old-fashioned tide mills at home. As for telephones, who that can shout from roof to roof and down the echoing street should trouble himself to whisper into a funnel?

My windows are well placed, for I can watch the crowd thronging in and out of the Jaffa gate, writes William D. McCracken in Asia. This is the widest opening the city has, since William II of Prussia had it enlarged to permit his spectacular entry—a symbolical pageant that he staged to represent his taking possession of the holy city by agreement with the sultan in Constantinople. But wide is the gate which leads to destruction. The real Jaffa gate is a narrow one at the end of the wide passageway; and it was the one used by Gen. Allenby when he entered Jerusalem after its capture, modestly, on foot, carrying the cane that the British officer affects as his only scepter of power. This gate is now closed with heavy iron bars and will not be reopened until the exact political status of Jerusalem has been determined.

MAYOR NOT LIGHTLY CHOSEN

Chief Executive of City of London Is Called Upon to Fulfill Many Requirements.

Sir William Trevelyan, in his recently published book, "A Lord Mayor's Diary," points out that the chief magistrate of the city of London is chosen in quite a different manner from that adopted by any other municipality in the kingdom, remarks London Answers.

Instead of being elected by the members of the corporation, or council, who may, and often do, for political party reasons, choose someone who has never done suit or services to the town, London's lord mayor can be chosen only from those who have served an apprenticeship of some years to the corporation.

He must first be elected an alderman by the ratepayers of his ward, and accepted and sworn in by the court of aldermen; then he must have served the office of sheriff, to which position he has to be elected by the liverymen, and afterward approved by the sovereign.

Then, and not till then, is he eligible to ask the liverymen to elect him as lord mayor; the court of aldermen afterward again having the power to refuse him, the approval of the sovereign being also again necessary before he can take office.

New Idea for Pictures.

It is not often that an entirely new method of producing pictures is discovered, and an Oregon artist is attracting considerable attention with a process as pleasing as it is original. Instead of using fluid pigments of any kind, bits of colored cloth, pasted on to each detail of the work, are pasted upon the canvas background, which is stretched over thin board. Some of the almost infinitesimal particles of fabric are shredded out to mere threads to get the desired effect, while the bulkier objects of the scene are built up in relief, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A sharp-pointed stick serves as a brush for this curious art. The finished pictures exemplify the remarkable results attained when patience and the artistic sense are coordinated.

An investigation of the subject of industrial fatigue conducted in the government shops by the English government resulted in obtaining a great deal of valuable information. It has been the means in many cases of a great increase of the output, and these investigations are about to be extended generally to all British industrial establishments by a recently established industrial fatigue research board, under the department of scientific and industrial research and the medical research committee. The duties of the board will be to initiate, organize and promote, by research, grants, or otherwise, investigations in different industries with the view of finding the most favorable hours of labor, spells of work, rest pauses, etc.

Policewomen Now Established.

Policewomen have become an established factor of municipal law enforcement in recent years, but motorcycle policewomen still are a novelty. London now has a squad of them, however, and they are doing very effective work, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine. The women have been members of the police force for some time, but have only recently acquired their machines.

His Choice.

The ex-gob, now the father of triplets, proudly displayed his offspring to his bashful buddy. "What do you think of them?" he queried. "Well," replied his buddy doubtfully, "if I was you I think I'd keep that one there."—The American Legion Weekly.

Opium Production.

Opium is the product of the poppy which only grows to perfection in a tropical or sub-tropical climate. The part of the British empire that produces the most opium is India, and there production is restricted. The poppy may now be grown by individuals or private companies only in the united provinces, Azra and Oudh, and in the central Indian native states. Except in those states the manufacture of opium is a government monopoly.

Sunshine Somewhere.

A plant growing in a cedar picks out the distant spot where the sunbeams come through the little window, and pushes its way through the half-darkness, stretching its pale stalk to an amazing length, to reach the patch of sunshine. Why shouldn't we do as much? If there is nothing cheerful close to us, let us reach ahead in our thoughts to the pleasure that is coming, or back to some joy that is past.

Was Impatient.

Bess had been told that Aunt Lila was going to have a baby brought from heaven for her to play with, and she was much pleased and excited over it. After dinner in the evening she climbed upon a chair to the telephone and asked central for the number, which she had learned. When she heard her aunt's voice over the phone she called loudly: "Oh, Aunt Lila, has your baby turned yet?"

Which Parent Worked Hard?

Two brothers were discussing which of the parents worked the harder. Johnny claimed that the fathers did, for they worked all day in the office and were always busy getting ready for business trips. Jack replied that the mothers worked all day, too, and couldn't stop at six o'clock like the fathers did, but had to keep right on working.

The Thimble.

It has been asserted that the Dutch were the first to make thimbles properly and popular. Perhaps this may be so, but there is the strongest evidence that thimbles of a kind have been discovered at Babylonian and that in many cases they were in constant use in the dim and distant ages when the world was very young.

Prison.

To dream of living in a prison contrarily promises consolation for trouble. To visit one in your dream is a sign of a legacy from some distant relative. To dream of departing from a prison is a sign of great coming happiness. To dream of entering one signifies safety in some need.—Exchange.

Large, Solid Head.

Mumsey sent me to get a head of lettuce, and told me the good ones would be solid and hard. I carefully picked out a large solid head, and asked the grocer how much that head of lettuce cost. He answered: "Excuse me, but that is a cabbage."—Exchange.

Clashing Argument.

The little girls were preparing to play horse, and had difficulty deciding the question, "Who will be the woman?" Finally one said to a top of fidelity, "But, Mary Elizabeth, I've got to be. Don't you know I'm sister and you are?"

To Live With Honor.

The shortest and surest way to live with honor in the world, is to be really what we would appear to be. All human virtues increase and strengthen themselves by the practice and experience of them.—Socrates.

REVERE MEMORY OF MACEO

Negro Patriot Said to Hold the Chief Place in the Hearts of Cuban Masses.

Graves in the cemetery of Santiago de Cuba are family affairs, built of cement and six or eight "stories" deep, so that the coffins are set one above the other, as their time comes, in perfect chronological order, writes Harry A. Frank in the Century.

Over the top, commonly a bare three or four feet above the grass, is laid a huge stone slab, preferably of marble, with immense brass or nickel rings at each corner by which to lift it, and space on its top for a poetic epitaph to each succeeding occupant. As in all Spanish countries, the tombs of all but the wealthiest inmates are rented for a term of years, at the end of which time, if the descendants fail to renew the contract, the bodies are tossed into a common graveyard, to make room for those of greener memory.

Martí, the Cuban "Father of Liberty," is buried here, and Estrada Palma, promoted from humble pedagogue in an American school to first president of Cuba. But neither holds the chief place in the heart of the Cuban masses. That is reserved for Macao, the negro general killed just before the dawn of independence during a foolhardy scouting expedition in the woods of Cardenal, in company with a bare half-dozen soldiers.

Cuban "Memorial Day" is observed throughout the island with much spouting of poetry, and laying on of flowers, on December 7, the anniversary of Macao's death at the hands of the Spaniards.

HAS SUPERB WATER POWER

That of British Columbia Is Said to Equal Five Niagaras in Its Possibilities.

The potential water power of British Columbia, experts declare, is equal to that of five Niagaras. Pouring down from the mountains comes enough water to develop 2,000,000 horse-power. Niagara falls, when all the water that is available on the Canadian side has been harnessed will produce only 650,000 horse power.

Only 125,000 electric horse power is now developed by the plants supplying Vancouver, New Westminster and the towns in the vicinity. This power turns the wheels of mills and factories, propels the street cars of these cities and provides lights for the streets and homes. If the entire wealth of British Columbia's water power were harnessed it would be sufficient to provide power, light and heat for 40 cities the size of Vancouver and New Brunswick combined. With this cheap power available, economists predict that some day the province will become one of the greatest manufacturing centers of Canada.

Fine Tune Will Live.

Probably the majority of churchgoers will agree with the view of Wellington in his refusal to allow the church bells of his parish to ring out "Tipperary" in honor of the great peace, for in these matters one must of course draw the line somewhere.

Yet, when the vicar says: "If 'Tipperary' why not 'Tommy, Make Room for Uncle?' the analogy is not very apt. Both songs, it is true, are not well, classical music. But the glorious associations of 'Tipperary' have raised it far above such criticism; and though the famous tune may never reach the height of a church belfry, it is, nevertheless, likely to go down to posterity as the immortal 'Marseillaise' of the Old Contemptibles.—London Chronicle.

Happy on His Way.

In one of the Indianapolis schools recently the teacher announced to her pupils that they would study China during the afternoon, and told the children to bring various products of the country. Very excitedly a little chap rushed into the grocery store and told the grocer to give him a nickel's worth of saffron, as he was to study China at school, and the grocer told him she must have said Indiana, but he gave him Gunpowder and Imperial mixed, instead of the good old Hooster product, and sent him happily on his way.

The new Consider Scyllia, according to an English newspaper, is to have only one funnel, for all her 20,000 tons. Time was when a liner's standing was in direct ratio with the number of her funnels. Four funnels indicated A1 rank. One famous steamship was, it is said, equipped with an unnecessary fourth funnel simply for appearance's sake. But now, it seems, the funnels are to go, for only one is really necessary.—From the Outlook.

Seals Migrate Early.

The protective measure adopted by the government for the benefit of the seals in American waters has been entirely successful, as indicated by the great number of animals seen to be migrating to the Arctic seas. The migration was three weeks earlier than usual, and an unusually large number of animals were noted on their way to the north.

The Opening of Autumn Millinery

Always an auspicious occasion our Millinery Opening this year will attain additional prestige because of the exceptional beauty and variety of its modes.

Duvelyn is given precedence over all other materials, appearing in sailors, hats of notched brims, tams, modes adorned with pleated frills and embroidered. Velvets, clipped beavers, metal brocades and embroidered taffetas also have established vogue.

The small Hat because it caters to woman's love of veils is eminently the mode of Autumn. Here it finds varied expression. Toques, Egyptian and Hindu turbans, and Hats with diminutive brims are favored.

There was among the garnitures of gorgeous hand embroidery, soft fabric frills, burnt goose, velvet, tulle, glycerine ostrich, moque, hanks and blonde. Altogether this is a most impressive and instructive showing.

WITH A DISTINCTIVE SUIT ONE IS READY FOR ANY EVENT OF AN AUTUMN DAY

Skepticism disappears in the face of facts. Those who insist that in the clothes world there is nothing new, have but to see these Suits. Lines, in themselves examples of originality and smartness, have been made even more charming through the introduction of rich embroidery trimmings and the lavish use of fur. Tailored models are of serge and tricotine and are many elaborate modes, but it remains for duvelyn to furnish an exquisite basis for the Suits of afternoon. Browns, browns and greens lead.

AT LEAST ONE FROCK IN YOUR AUTUMN WARDROBE SHOULD BE EMBROIDERED

"I'll take all of mine that way." You will be tempted to say that and more after the merest glimpse of the altogether charming Frocks which make up our Autumn display for they introduce embroideries as fascinating as they are novel and varied. Startling yet so pleasing, withal are the oriental embroideries that grace the dark-toned woolen Frocks that many women, we feel sure, will want to linger and inspect even after very satisfactory selections have been made. The Frocks of duvelyn stubbornly—and cleverly—cling to motifs and designs worked out in chenille, but the silk Frocks are partial to no particular medium, according equal favor to embroideries executed in silk, wool, or metal thread.

SEPARATE SKIRTS WITH CHARACTER AND INDIVIDUALITY

The new Skirts are here in numbers, pleasingly varied and displaying conspicuously those features which mark them as distinctly of this Autumn. Soft woolsens, in plaids, stripes, checks and plain, give interesting expression to the mode of the moment. Colors when combined are harmoniously blended and the workmanship is of a quality that add to one's joy in possession.

EXPRESSED WILL OF PEOPLE

"First American Constitution" Grew Out of Feeling of Dissatisfaction With Conditions.

The term "First American Constitution" is frequently applied by writers to what is better known historically as the "Fundamental Orders of Connecticut." Many people in Massachusetts having become dissatisfied with a law that none but church members should vote or hold office, at length determined to form other settlements. Other town organizations migrated almost bodily from Massachusetts to what was then the wilderness. These were Newton, Water-town and Dorchester, which had their names changed, respectively, to Hartford, Wethersfield and Windsor. Along with them went their governing organizations and a general council for the three towns was afterward formed.

Jan. 11, 1639, this little community formed the first written American Constitution at Hartford. This Constitution springs directly from the will of the people, and neither English king nor parliament, nor Colonial council, nor governor had anything to do with it. The orders provided for two general representative assemblies each year, composed of delegates from each town, one for the election of governor and magistrates, the other for making the laws. These fundamental orders as they were called, were the beginnings of democratic government in America.

KEY TO ANCIENT HISTORY

Greek Papyri Have Revealed Practically All That Is Known of Greco-Roman World.

Greek papyri were documents for ancient history which supplied a personal view of things. They described classes not represented in history as usually written and helped in the study of popular psychology of the Greco-Roman world, and by analogy, also, to some extent, the Greco-Roman world.

The papyri illustrated the history of administration, showing it in actual working, and not in theory. There was not much in the papyri on mystery cults, but there were interesting religious documents, such as the hymn to Isis. The papyri mostly illustrated the popular attitude to religion, popular piety and impiety. They were also useful for early Christianity. Egypt being the native country of monasticism.

The economic decay of the Roman empire, popular education, and the history of the Greek language, were also illustrated by papyri. The borrowings of Christianity could be traced from older paganism from the papyri, and the Christian and pagan attitudes could thus be contrasted.

Historic Lies.

Two of the most famous lies relate to the last hours of Nelson. Everyone knows that the real signal at Trafalgar which he ordered was "Nelson expects every man to do his duty." The other lie is about the coat he wore on his quarter deck. He is reported to have silenced the affectionate importunity of his officers, entreating him to conceal the stars on his breast, by saying: "In honor I gained them, and in honor I will die with them." This is the great lie, but it is untrue. Dr. Arnold heard the facts from Sir Thomas Hardy. Nelson wore on the day of battle the same coat which he had worn for weeks, having the order of the bath embroidered upon it; and when his friend expressed some apprehension of the badge, he answered that he was aware of the danger, but that it was "too late then to shift his coat." The fabricated saying is magnificent: why destroy it?

Stirring Things Up.

Gertrude is 4 years of age. She faces the world fearlessly, looks it squarely in the eye, and if it doesn't track exactly to suit her she tells it things. Her mamma had gone away the other day and left Gertrude in the care of her grandma, and, after a clash of wills, Gertrude had been put into a room to remain for a specified length of time. "If you stir out of that room before I tell you may," cautioned grandma severely. "I am going to spank you." Gertrude stood with arms akimbo for a moment and then retorted in a tone of finality: "Well! When you spank me you will find that business is certainly beginning to pick up in this neighborhood."—The Argonaut.

3,000-Year-Old Story.

Do you know which is the oldest work of fiction? It is the "Tale of Two Brothers," written over three thousand years ago by the librarian to King Merneptah, the supposed Pharaoh of the Exodus. The story was written for the amusement of the king's son, who afterward reigned as Seti the Second. He has signed his name in two places on the manuscript, and these are probably the only surviving autographs of a king of Egypt.

The "Tale of Two Brothers" is written on nineteen sheets of papyrus in a bold hieratic hand. It was purchased in 1857 by the British museum from a Mme. d'Orbigny.

Their Business.

"I read about a meeting of deaf and dumb painters. How do you think they got along?"

"It ought to be easy for painters to get along with the sign language."

TREASURES OF BUDDHIST ART

Marvelous Collection Preserved for Centuries in the Temple of Daigoji in Japan.

Daigoji, the head temple of the Ono school of the Shingon sect of Buddhism in Japan, situated not far from Kyoto, in the Uji district, suggests by its name its relation to Emperor Daigo, who reigned from 888 to 930. Its name originated from the fact that its founder, Abbot Shobo, came to this village and lived here after he drank from an old farmer's spring. "The water was as good as daigo," it is a Buddhist word meaning an unctuous rich liquid. The posthumous title of the emperor must have originated from his devotion to the temple and its founder, as well as from his burial in the temple grounds.

Rare specimens of Buddhist art and literature, carefully preserved as the temple treasures of Daigoji, and exhibited recently at Tokio, through the efforts of Dr. Katsunori Koroina of the editorial staff of historical materials in Tokio Imperial university, bring the story of the temple down to 200 years ago. Among the peculiar paintings in the temple are the "flower viewing screens," pictures of horse training and a collection of fan paintings said to be rare treasures.

In the literary collection there is an illustrated copy of the third roll of "Scripture of Cause and Effect of the Past and the Present." It was made nearly 1,200 years ago, but the colors in the picture are as fresh as the present day pigments. This scroll is considered the oldest thing extant in Japan of colored art on paper.

TREES GIVE MILKLIKE JUICE

Tropics Provide Pretty Fair Substitute for the Animal Product in Use in Northern Climes.

In British Guiana and the West Indies, particularly on the banks of the River Demerara, there grows a tree known to the natives as the hyalga, which yields from its bark and pith a juice slightly richer and thicker than cow's milk. The tree is about forty feet high and eighteen inches in circumference when full grown, and the natives use its juice as we use milk. It being perfectly harmless and mixing well with water.

The Cingalese have a tree—they call it Kirigahuma—which yields a fluid in all respects like milk; while in the forests of Para grows a tree called the massenodendron, which gives a milklike juice. It can be kept for an indefinite time and shows no tendency to become sour.

On the other hand, certain trees in the valleys of Arizona and in Canada yield a similar fluid, which, when exposed to the air, begins to form into a kind of cheese, which very soon becomes sour.

In the Canary Islands there is a tree called abayra dolce, of which the milk, thickened into a jelly, is considered a delicacy.

Unpleasant Dreams.

A London chemist, dreaming that he had swallowed poison by mistake, rose from the chair in which he had fallen asleep and, so vivid had the dream been, he went to the shop and took an antidote. But this, in the absence of real poison, began to poison him, and before he realized the mistake the error was beyond repair.

In another case a man, after a heated argument with a visiting friend, dreamed that his guest was in his room molesting him. He actually "felt" rough hands on his body, jumped out of bed, and ran to his friend's room. There he attacked his innocent "assailant" so violently that the latter was confined to bed for several weeks.

Bachelor to the Rescue.

In a street car the other day I sat directly behind a woman who was trying desperately to untie a face veil. I was fascinated by her persistent but fruitless attempts to untie the veil with one hand while with the other she clutched her nose glasses, which were helplessly entangled in it. I was just wondering why some woman passenger did not offer assistance, when she turned to me and said: "Pardon me, but would you be kind enough to see if you can unfasten this veil." After frantic efforts, amid the suppressed merriment of the passengers I came out victor. But I was a much embarrassed bachelor.—Exchange.

Ostrich Plumes.

Ostrich plumes are not actually plucked, by the way. They are cut, pruned with no damage or pain to the bird. When the feathers are "ripe" the ostriches are driven into a Y-shaped enclosure. Their heads are covered with a hood like a stocking, which renders them tractable. The wings are spread by the man doing the "plucking" and the feathers are clipped off fairly close to the flesh. This does not hurt the bird in the least and within sixty days the dead quill ends drop out of their own accord. The tail feathers are also clipped.

Kept Fish Alive.

During the recent storm several automobiles got into such deep water at Pennsylvania and Twenty-second streets that they had to stop until the flood abated. One member of a fishing party climbed out on the running board of his car and carefully tied a net of live fish to a spoke and calmly dropped it into the water.—Indianapolis News.

Sumatra Protects Tigers.

Tigers are protected in Sumatra, the reason being that one of the important industries of that country is the cultivation of an African palm. This palm was introduced several years ago, and the wild tigers so enjoyed its easily-obtained fruits and so thrived on them that they increased and multiplied rapidly until they became a perfect pest. Now, wild tigers are the favorite diet of Sumatran tigers, therefore the protection. But it looks like a dangerous experiment.

Baltic Sea Leads in Amber.

The principal source of the amber supply is the coast of the Baltic sea, more particularly in the vicinity of Konigsberg. Even in ancient times this district constituted the "Kimberley" of the amber world. At this place amber, which is really a mineralized resin of extinct pine trees, is freely washed up by the sea, especially after a violent storm. The fishermen use nets, with which they trawl the shallow waters.

About Heaven.

There is a well-known story about a child being told that animals don't go to heaven, whereupon she inquired how heaven could flow with milk and honey if there were no cows there to supply the milk. A new variant of this has appeared. A new modern youngster on being told the same thing remarked: "Then what's the use of going if we have to go the bad place every morning for our milk."—Boston Transcript.

Famous Gargoyles.

Gargoyle is a name given to a projecting spout, so placed that it drains the roof gutter. The modern metal pipes have superseded the use of gargoyles to a great extent. In gothic architecture these long and grotesque-carved spouts have heads of men, beasts or birds in preposterous combination with bodies, paws and wings of monsters. The gargoyles of the cathedral of Notre Dame are particularly famous.

English Conquest of Ireland.

The conquest of Ireland by the English was a gradual process. The first step was taken by Henry II, who is said to have obtained a bull from Pope Hadrian IV, authorizing him to take possession of the country. The Tudors steadily pursued the policy of taking land from the Irish chiefs and giving it to English settlers. The final act of the union was passed and proclaimed on January 1, 1801.

First Real Estate Deal.

According to one authority the first real estate deal in America occurred on May 6, 1626. Peter Minuet purchased the site of the city of New York for the sum of $24 in present United States currency values. This price was 90 cents per 1,000 acres.

White Faces for Brown Women.

The women of the Macua tribe of Africa have a rich brown skin, but ever since they saw the white skin of some Caucasian travelers they have been making a paste which they smear over their faces until it gives them the appearance of wearing a false face.

"Hyphenated Americans."

It is claimed that the term "hyphenated Americans" dates back prior to the year 1876, when John Boyle O'Reilly applied it to a remnant of the old time Tories who were objecting to the nation-wide celebration which took place that year.

The First Lifeboat.

The first lifeboat ever made is still in existence in York-shire. It was constructed in 1802 to be used "for saving life in storms or other dangers to ships." A poor shipwright invented it, and parliament voted him $6,000 as a reward.

General's Magical Influence.

General Gordon's almost magical influence arose from the all-pervading sense, inspired by his mere presence, that there was a man who always was, and always would be, inflexibly true to his highest conviction. When he was in the Sudan, he never hesitated to place outside his tent the white handkerchief, which meant, as all men knew, that he was at prayer and that, during that sacred hour when he was alone with God, he must not be disturbed.—H. Cheley in "Stories for Telling to Boys."

Bruises in Furniture.

Here is a method which has been of great use in removing bruises from furniture. Wet the part with warm water; double a piece of brown paper five or six times, then soak it in warm water and lay it on the dent. Apply a warm (not hot) flatiron until the moisture has evaporated. If the bruises are not gone, repeat the process. You will find this very good, and if the surface of the furniture is not broken the dent will disappear and leave no trace.

How Mint Buys Gold.

The mint buys gold in any form, whether coined or not, when presented in sums to the value of $50 or more. The face value of coins is not considered, only their weight and purity. An equivalent amount of lawful money is given in exchange. Theoretically, the gold is coined and handed back to the owner without charge. In practice, as a matter of convenience and to save time, the mint simply buys the gold and pays its full coinage value—that is, what it will be when coined.

The mole is not blind, as many persons suppose. Its eyes are hardly larger than a pinhead, and are carefully protected from dust and dirt by means of inclosing hairs.

Kills Pesky Bed Bugs P. D. Q.

Just think, a 25c box of P. D. Q. (Pesky Devil's Quinine) makes a quart, enough to kill a trillion bedbugs, roaches, fleas or cockroaches and keeps future generations by killing the eggs and does not injure the clothing. Liquid fire to the bedbugs is what P. D. Q. is. Bedbugs stand as good chance as a snail in a jelly-firmed hot roast. Put a spoonful in every package of P. D. Q. to enable you to kill them and their eggs in the cracks. Look for the devil's head on every box, then you'll have what Hospitals have found to be the best insecticide known to science. Special Hospital size, 12.50 makes five gallons—contains 3 spoons—either size at your druggist or sent prepaid upon receipt of price by the Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Genuine P. D. PRICE SHOULD HAVE READ 38 CENTS PER BUSHEL

In the review of the local coal situation, printed in The Mail on Thursday, the price per bushel should have read 38 cents per bushel, with coal selling at $10.00 per ton f. o. b. tracks. At this price coal would be almost prohibitive to a large number of people throughout the valley.

ANOTHER STORY OF THE BUNOLA SHOOTING

The Elizabeth Herald says there is another side to the story told by James Rue, constable of Forward township, Allegheny county, who on Saturday night last shot a man named Foster, the wound resulting fatally a short time later. The Herald printed the story told by Foster at the time of the killing. They were John Trumpe, also his brother; W. King, McIntyre, Frank Wilson, Louie Berry, Louie Opfar and Clarence Foster, all well known miners and citizens of the community. They had that day received the largest pay they had ever drawn, and were celebrating the event. They had all been drinking a little, and were in a jovial mood. They were standing along the curb at the roadside, singing, when Rue passed by in his car. He did not speak to them, but on his return trip he stopped his car near the curb and demanded that they go home. Foster put his head inside the car and said, "Who the — are you?" At this Rue jumped out on the opposite side of the car and coming around to the rear of it threw the rays of a flashlight into the face of McIntyre and demanded if he was the man who had made the remark and he answered "No." At this Foster stepped up and said, "I am the man." At this blows were struck between the two men. Foster with his fist and Rue with his flashlight. Rue then reached into the car and got a revolver and struck Foster over the head. He dropped to his knees at the first blow but Rue continued to strike him. He then stepped back and fired point blank at the prostrate man. At this the other men ran from the scene.

DONORA ENJOYING AIR PLANE FLIGHTS

Donora citizens are enjoying rides through the clouds this week, a Curtis U-plane in charge of Lieut. Andrews late an aviator in the United States Army being in charge. The aviation field has been established near the Sampson school, on the Eldora Rue to the county officials, but also brick road back of Donora and a large number of citizens of the big steel town have availed themselves of the opportunity to take a trip through the air. The plane in its flight usually circles an area bounded by West Newton, Monessen and Monongahela, and thence back to the landing field. The minimum length of flights are 15 minutes, and the fee is $1 per minute. The plane is to remain until tomorrow afternoon at least.

SCHOOLS FIND IT HARD TO GET COAL

Showing the condition of the local coal market, and the difficulty in securing supplies for public institutions, the Observer on Thursday noted the fact that the school district of Washington was unable to secure a bid on a proposition to furnish 20,000 bushels of coal for the school buildings in that borough. A contract for this supply had been awarded some time ago, but the dealer who had made the proposition to furnish the supply returned the contract unsigned, saying the operator from whom he expected to secure his supply was unable to accommodate him. The board has readjusted for bids, but it is doubtful if any tender is made. Monessen experienced the same trouble in securing coal for its buildings, which is to show the difficulties experienced by school districts in securing the necessary amount of fuel.

SAY UNIONTOWN LIQUOR RAID WAS A FARCE

The statement is made that the raid on Uniontown hotels, by prohibition agents, was a well staged affair. The sixteen officers, accompanied by their own press agent, visited the town early Tuesday afternoon and made a raid on two hotels and a chemical plant. The entire affair was farcical, it being known for 48 hours previous to the arrival of the officers that the raid would be staged.

CHARLEROI WINS FROM DONORA WIRE

The Charleroi Independents took the first game in the two-ply series for the Monongahela valley championship, with the Donora Wire Workteam, by a score of 6 to 3. The game was played last evening at the local park, and the locals put the contest on ice at the very beginning of the fray. The second game will be played tomorrow afternoon at the same place, game being called at 4:30 o'clock. Further is slated to pitch for the locals and Callie McGinty for the visitors.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 22, DESIGNATED BUNDLE DAY

Wednesday, September 22, has been designated as Bundle Day for Charleroi, and bundles of old clothing may be left at the borough building on that day, in care of W. M. Darby, who will care for them until shipped. These old clothes will be shipped on Friday to Pittsburg, and from there to New York, and thence to the Near East for the benefit of those who are suffering because of the lack of clothing.

NEW TIRES FOR THE FIRE TRUCK ARE HERE.

The new wheels and cushion tires for the fire truck have arrived and are being placed on the machine. The new tires are quite large, and together with the wheels chains will cost the borough approximately about $1,200. The new tires will cause the truck to ride much easier, a fact the firemen will appreciate.

RESEMBLE ACRES OF LILIES LONG PUZZLE TO SCIENTISTS

Vietnam's Beautiful Description of the American Cemetery in France—Exquisite in Uniformity.

Though American relatives usually want to plant flowers on the graves of their sons or brothers in the American army cemeteries in France, an army ruling forbidding this has been adhered to. The cemeteries, a uniform stretch of green grass with white crosses, look like "acres of white lilies," according to Miss Elsie Goddard, a Wellesley graduate who has returned to this country after having had supervision of the Y. W. C. A. rest huts built for the comfort of relatives visiting the graves in four of the American cemeteries in France. "At first every one wants to plant flowers on the grave they love," says Miss Goddard, "but they soon see that the army ruling keeps the cemeteries most beautiful and impressive because of the uniformity. Cut flowers can be placed on graves and flowers can be planted in the flower beds near by, but not on the graves. The French people who are eager to decorate the graves in some parts are often surprised at this ruling, but our cemeteries, as cared for, are wonderfully impressive. After visiting a few American graves and taking the bodies of their boys home, though they have been determined to do it before they came." The Y. W. C. A. and Red Cross combine in maintaining rest huts at Romagne, Bony, Belleau Woods and Epernay-Fardenois. "No matter how prepared a mother and father are for what they expect to see, the first sight of the field of American graves overwhelms them," says Miss Goddard.

"MADE GOOD" WITH CAMERA

Kermit Roosevelt's Photographs, Taken in Africa, Are Looked on as Masterpieces.

In 1900, when the British expedition went to Africa, on the greatest of all expeditions, the professional photographer, Kermit Roosevelt, suddenly was thrust into the position of official photographer to the expedition. I viewed this arrangement with many misgivings—because it was a task for maturity and long experience—but the young man made good. He made good 100 per cent, not only with the big game rifle, but in wild animal photography as well.

Mr. Kermit's masterpiece is his best picture of a whole herd of elephants in a high but rather open forest, William Hornaday writes in Scribner's. The light was none too good, but fortunately it was good enough. This real achievement was scored from a perch on a low limb of a tree, conveniently placed to drop the intervening brush out of view. Five tuskers appear in the front line, and the elephants are massed together in the composition as neatly and perfectly as if the hand of man had grouped them to get all the flankers into the picture.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt was very proud of this picture, and so were the editors of Scribner's magazine and the "African Game Trail" book.

Aircraft Conditions.

Several American commissions have recently made an investigation into the aircraft conditions in different parts of the world, and they agree that this country has the opportunity to lead the world in civilian aeronautical activities and as a market for aircraft in 1920. It was the joint opinion of these commissions that the United States is ahead of all other countries in number of planes actually ordered and bought for civilian purposes, number of aerial transportation lines being organized, actual daily performance of the aerial mail service, and volume of mail carried, and possibilities for the use of aircraft for commercial purposes, and that the fact that the post office has proved that military planes can be converted into mail carriers makes possible the utilization of service planes to meet the immediate demand which manufacturers are unable to meet.

Destroyed the Illusion.

Into the restaurant she came with the air of a princess, a truly regal figure, clad in brown from top to toe and looking as if she had just visited a Parisian modiste and a beauty parlor—a perfectly groomed, handsome woman. There was an air of refinement about her. She looked expensively turned out in the simple, deceptive way. She seated herself at a table and there were little exclamations of admiration from other diners near. A waitress approached: every one hushed to listen to the beautiful creature speak.

In a high-pitched, East Side voice she ordered: "Bring me a omelette." It was brought, and she played it glibly speaking, with her knife.—New York Evening Post.

Youthful Cattle Raiser.

Little Edwin, age seven, lives on a farm in Grant county. It has been for some time his father's custom to sell calves to a neighboring farmer when they were about three days old. The other day Little Edwin was instructed to go to the home of the neighbor, and tell him that a calf would be ready for him the following day, and that it was a "bull calf." With an air of great importance the young farmer delivered the following message: "My father told me to tell you that our bull has a calf, and you can have it tomorrow."—Kansas City News.

Strange Work Left by Mound Builders Never Has Had Anything Like Satisfactory Explanation.

The Serpent Effigy mound, near Chillicothe, Ohio, the strangest earthwork left by the Mound Builders, is one of the most striking and puzzling creations that is to be found in the Scioto River valley. Over all, the mound is more than 1,300 feet long, and depicts a serpent of several convolutions, jaws extended, and an oval within the grasp of the huge jaws. The groundwork is from two to four feet in height, and from three or four to 10 feet in thickness. Within the oval, beyond the extended jaws, archaeologists have found an altar of stones and copper ornaments.

An old Indian fighter who died in the West several years ago, nearly 100 years old, declared he had heard a story in his younger days of a tribe of strange Indians in the Scioto valley who each year held a fall festival and gave a great powwow on a snake's back. He said he never could understand the meaning of the story until later in life when he heard of the Mound Builders. His recollection of the story had been given to students of the school, might have served to give them a few theories on which to base their research work. He said the strange race were supposed to sacrifice a certain number of children born under the first full moon of spring. For this the Mound Builders might have used the stone altar which has been found.

JOKE ON BOTH "CHAPPIES"

Some Particulars About Their English Raiment With Which They Were Not Acquainted.

It isn't exactly their swell brand of self that entitles them to be so decidedly English in their apparel, but they've a "chance" for the English talent just the same.

"How do you like my English cap, old chap?" one of them asked. "It's a turtle, old dear, but it isn't quite so English as mine," the other said.

"Oh, mine is quite."

"No, not nearly."

And so they compared caps. But when they looked at the names of the makers it was discovered by the "decidedly English" follower that his cap had been made in New York. The other bore a London label—and, of course, you understand, old chap, it was quite a "lawf."

And the funny feature of it all is that the New York cap was made to appeal to the English trade, while the London cap was designed to catch the fancy of the Yank.

Muscle Not Properly Applied.

Every day evidence appears that the American male is physically more powerful than his ancestors. The burglars who entered an apartment on Central Park West carried off, not merely the little valuables, but also a safe weighing 400 pounds. Two thieves who operated in a restaurant in business hours abandoned the old school method of snatching the money from the till and took the cash register intact. Not a week passes but some warehouse reports the theft of a dozen barrels of whisky each of which weighs at least 350 pounds. School playgrounds, the baseball fields and the gymnasiums seem to have done wonders for the biceps of our youth in certain lines. But why is it, when an effort is made to divert some of this magnificent strength to commonplace work, that an apparent disintegration of muscle ensues?—New York Sun.

Wouldn't Have Dared to Say It.

A recent bride received many telegrams of congratulation on the eventful day, but there was one in particular which was out of the ordinary. Her sister lives in New York and came on to Brooklyn for the wedding. In the evening the following telegram was received from her sister's "hubby" in New York:

"Congratulations on having taken my wife from me if only for a day. If you keep her there, will consider the marriage a great success. Heartiest condolences to F—in having joined the family. He doesn't know what he is up against and my great consolation is that I have a fellow sufferer who can sympathize with me."—Gaily.

"At first Mrs. M—was angry, but finally consented to have it read."—Brooklyn Enterprise.

Japan's Trade With North America.

Japan's trade with North America for the first quarter of this year amounted to 201,824,000 yen in exports and 276,954,000 yen in imports, the balance being 75,130,000 yen. Compared with the corresponding period of last year, the figures show an increase of 114,343,000 yen in exports and of 102,744,000 yen in imports. The principal article for export was raw silk, while principal imports comprised raw cotton and iron.—East and West News.

New Insulating Material.

A new insulating material is being made from a kind of kelp which is found in the Australian waters. The moist precipitate is subjected to pressure, after which it is hardened by a treatment with formalin and then it is shaped in a lathe. The material takes the place of slate and is much lighter in weight, and is much less expensive.—Exchange.

Bright Front Door.

To keep a grained and varnished front door in good condition, rub on very lightly a little brown boot-polish. If the door has a brown finish, and then polish the wood with a soft clean cloth. This is also a good remedy for scratched furniture. It gives a brilliant polish and hides the scratches.

The First Museum.

The first museum was part of the palace of Alexandria, where learned men were maintained at the public cost, just as eminent public servants were in the Prytaneum at Athens. Its foundation is attributed to Ptolemy Philadelphus about 280 B. C.

Powerful Fire Extinguisher.

One of the best solutions for the extinction of incipient fires consists of crude calcium, 20 parts; salt, five parts; dissolved in 75 per cent of water. Keep at hand and apply with a hand pump.

Peculiar Affliction.

Bernice was out playing when a horse fell. She came in the house much excited and said: "Oh, pa: a horse fell down and can't get up. His leg's unconquered."

No One Without Influence.

Each one is accountable for his influence, whether he wills it or not. He can choose what his influence shall be, but not whether he shall have any; that is a matter beyond his power.

He was known as the stingiest man in town. The Sunday schools were planning a picnic and every one wondered what he would bring. The leader read off the menu and the different members offered to bring this or that. Then one young man said as he didn't have any one to cook for him, he would bring the coffee. Then the stingy man spoke up and said: "I will bring the water for the coffee."

Woods That Resist Decay.

The use of woods in airplanes has caused experiments to be made regarding the resistance to decay of various woods. Spruce, which has been extensively used in airplane construction, is not particularly durable. Port Oxford cedar, Southern cypress and California redwood are very resistant to decay.

Keen Analysis of Mankind.

What a chimera is man! What a confused chaos! What a subject of contradictions! A professed judge of all things, and yet a feeble worm of earth; the great depository and guardian of truth and yet a mere bundle of uncertainties; the glory and the shame of the universe.—Pascal.

True Friendship.

It is a noble and great thing to cover the blemishes and to excuse the failings of a friend; to draw a curtain before his stains, and to display his perfections, to bury his weaknesses in silence, but to proclaim his virtues upon the housetop.—Robert Southey.

Robinson Crusoe's Big Canoe

We Now Sell the Hudson Super-Six and Essex

Hudson Supreme in Beauty, Performance, Endurance. Essex, Lighter and Smaller, Dominant in Its Type

In making this announcement that we now sell Hudson and Essex we realize a long standing ambition.

You, as well as we, have long recognized the unquestioned superiority of these cars. You know how Hudson Super-Six has proved its leadership in speed, power, beauty and endurance. You know how Essex, smaller and lighter than Hudson, has established its supremacy over every car of its weight, size and price--and over many much larger, more expensive cars.

You know that the same men designed both Hudson and Essex, and that they are built in the same factory. The same careful construction goes into both cars. Each is a masterpiece of the designers art and mechanical perfection.

The Super-Six Motor Exclusive in Hudson

Everyone knows how Hudson, with its exclusive Super-Six motor, set the world's worth while stock car records for speed, power and endurance.

The Super-Six motor gives every Hudson 72 per cent more power with no added weight. And it decreases vibration so that automobile life is increased far beyond its previously known limits.

This endurance, more than its power and speed, makes Hudson the world's largest selling fine car. To you it means dependable, every day transportation and high sale value after long, hard service.

Remember, also, that Hudson is leader in beauty and style. For years it has been the pattern car of motordom. Types it created are now standard with all fine cars. And today, as always, it is foremost in design and development of comforts and refinements.

Essex Has Proved Supreme Endurance

Essex has demonstrated power, speed and endurance never before expected of a car of its weight.

A stock chassis set the world's official 50-hour endurance mark of 3,037 miles on the Cincinnati Speedway. In 94 hours, 22 minutes driving time it went 5,869 miles, averaging over a mile a minute, yet showed no wear.

This dependability ranks Essex with far costlier cars. So does its beauty. Its design, fittings and finishing command instant attention.

Add to these fine car qualities the fact that Essex excels other light cars in easy driving, nimbleness and acceleration, and you have an idea of its merits. To appreciate them fully you must drive this car.

And in price and saving of gasoline, oil and tires it fully meets your ideas of motor economy.

We have long wanted the Hudson-Essex franchise, but it was not easy to get. That we now have it fulfills our ambition to deal in the finest, most satisfying cars made. And our selection is a great company's recognition of our high sense of responsibility, its appreciation of our ability to serve you.

Come see the Hudson Super-Six and the dominant Essex in our store today.
